Hassockfield STC is a 52-place secure training centre in Medomsley operated by Serco.

The centre provides living accommodation including a young womens unit, a sports hall, healthcare and education facilities, a Chaplaincy and support services.

Skanska's design team was responsible for the civil and structural engineering designs of the centre, including external infrastructure, drainage, foundations and superstructure.

The company worked with the construction team throughout the project, building on the extensive experience in the custodial sector, minimising cut and fill on the project and value engineering the design throughout all phases of the project. □
